

Live your life

Introduction

Eating a healthy diet is especially important during pregnancy. Not only are you feeding yourself and aiming to boost your own health and wellbeing, but you are also providing all the nutrients needed for your growing baby.

During pregnancy, daily requirements for some nutrients are higher than those for non-pregnant women and extra attention is needed to ensure you are getting enough key nutrients, including folate, iodine, calcium, iron, omega-3 fatty acids and choline.

This 7-day meal plan will help you meet your nutritional requirements across the week during this exciting time of life!

Notes about this meal plan:

- This meal plan provides 7 eggs per week and provides at least 2 serves of fruit and 2.5 serves of dairy per day.
- Your needs may be higher or lower, therefore, for tailored advise please speak to an Accredited Practising Dietitian.
- It is important to follow the food safety recommendations during pregnancy to avoid the risk of food-borne illnesses. Make sure eggs are cooked through. Raw and undercooked eggs should be avoided.
