

How do chickens lay eggs?

Categories:

Health & Nutrition

It's a common misconception that a hen is incapable of laying eggs without a rooster around. There are no roosters on commercial egg farms and hens lay only unfertilised eggs. A hen requires around 24-26 hours to produce an egg and after it is laid, the process starts all over again about 30 minutes later.

How do chickens lay eggs?