

What are the Australian Standards for free range eggs?

Categories:

Farming

The maximum outdoor stocking density for free range egg farming is 10,000 hens per hectare of land or one hen per square metre. Each egg farm must state its outdoor stocking density on egg cartons. Importantly, free range hens are free to choose when to go outside and how long to stay there.

What are the Australian Standards for free range eggs?