

Diagnosing Avian Respiratory Diseases

Organisation: Queensland Department of Primary Industries

Publication: 1 October 1998

Researchers: P.J. Blackall and J. Miflin

Categories: Biosecurity & Flock Health

Tags: bacterial, coryza, infectious, haemophilus paragallinarum, pasteurella multocida, respiratory disease

Respiratory diseases are a major cause of economic losses to the Australian chicken meat and egg industries. This study reports on the development of a quick new diagnostic process to identify two strains of respiratory disease.

Respiratory diseases are a major cause of economic losses to the Australian chicken meat and egg industries. This study reports on the development of a quick new diagnostic process to identify two strains of respiratory disease.