

Inflammatory response to diet in the hindgut of layers

Organisation: University of Newcastle

Publication: 1 July 2005

Researchers: R. Taylor

Categories: Feeding & Nutrition

Tags: commercial feed, bacterial, cereal, colitis, diarrhoea, distal , enzyme, fermentative acidosis, grain, hindgut, livestock

The aim of the project was to investigate the effects of diet change over the short and long term in chickens, to determine whether this caused an inflammation of the hindgut tissues. .

The aim of the project was to investigate the effects of diet change over the short and long term in chickens, to determine whether this caused an inflammation of the hindgut tissues.