

Investigations into the management of the darkling beetle

Organisation: Department of Primary Industries (Queensland)

Publication: 1 November 2001

Researchers: T.A. Lambkin

Categories: Biosecurity & Flock Health

Tags: barn, biosecurity, resistance, broiler hen, culture, darkling beetle, deep litter, ecology, insecticide, pests, population, sheds

The darkling beetle is capable of transmitting diseases between chickens. This study reports on previous investigations into the insecticide resistance of darkling beetles, and highlights the need for a control plan.

The darkling beetle is capable of transmitting diseases between chickens. This study reports on previous investigations into the insecticide resistance of darkling beetles, and highlights the need for a control plan.