

SYSTEMATIC PATHOTYPING OF AUSTRALIAN MAREK'S DISEASE (MDV) ISOLATES

Published: 1 March 2005

Authors: S. W. Walkden-Brown, G.A. Tannock, B.F. Cheetham, A.F.M. Fakhru Islam and P.J. Groves

Organisation: University of New England

Time: Mar 2005

Categories: Biosecurity & Flock Health

Tags: cell structure, immunosuppression, isolate, kidney, Marek's disease virus, maternal antibody, pathotypes, propagation, virulence

Increasing the understanding of the evolution in virulence of Marek's Disease virus in Australia, and to providing up-to-date information to the industry was the objective of this study.

FULL REPORT

Systematic pathotyping of Australian Marek's disease (MDV) isolates
PDF (3.1 MB)